A SHOT

The moment air stops
close in front of your face
and checks the size of your lungs,
the moment the sun addresses you
with the agreed secret word,
then it'll be clear to you.

The horizon could be crossed
and other matters considered.

The heights furiously disclose
the concrete constructions of their peaks.
In the crowns of trees telephone switchboards rattle.
You ripen an octave higher.

NEWS UPDATE

Even poets

submit patent proposals.

They are mainly concerned with the utilization of twinkling of the stars, movements of eyelashes and butterflies, sparkling of lovers, and pull force of the muses.

Beyond that, I propose a household innovation. In your modern kitchen replace gas with neuroparalytic gas.

It will lighten your work and take away all your worries.
